

The Eighteenth Century

Theory and Interpretation

VOLUME 55

SPRING 2014

NUMBER 1

Sharp Minds / Twisted Bodies: Intellect, Disability, and Female Education in Frances Burney's Camilla Jason S. Farr	1
Lying with Godwin and Kant: Truth and Duty in St. Leon Peter Melville	19
Rousseau and Reformulating Celebrity Whitney Arnold	39
Organic Tensions: Putting the Tracings Back on the Map in Boswell's Life of Samuel Johnson Nathaniel Norman	57
Maids, Mistresses, and "Monstrous Doubles": Gender-Class Kyriarchy in The Female Quixote and Female Quixotism Aaron R. Hanlon	77
Critical Conversations	97
Civil Society and Its Discontents: The Good Life Tita Chico	99
The Happy Man and the Cultural Fable of the Good Life Laura Brown	103
Gulliver and the Houyhnhnm Good Life Erin Mackie	109
Navigating Crisis in Sheridan's The Rivals Daniel O'Quinn	117
Nostalgia and The Good Life Cristobal Silva	123
What's Old Is New Again: William Blackstone's Theory of Happiness Comes to America Kathryn Temple	129
Notes on Contributors	135