

The Eighteenth Century

Theory and Interpretation

VOLUME 53

SPRING 2012

NUMBER 1

- Sympathy for the Sovereign: Sovereignty, Sympathy, and the Colonial Relation in Edward Gibbon's The Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire 1
Peter DeGabriele
- Shaftesbury takes an Ethiopian to the Carnival: Foreignness, Subjectivity, and Intersubjectivity in "Sensus Communis" 23
David Sigler
- The Spouters' Revenge: Apprentice Actors and the Imitation
of London's Theatrical Celebrities 41
Leslie Ritchie
- Diverting Water in Rousseau: Technology, the Sublime, and the Quotidian 73
Julia Simon
- Diderot's Encyclopedic Poetics 99
Andrew H. Clark
- Difference and Enlightenment Violence: Locke, Shaftesbury, and Hutcheson 113
David Alvarez
- Matriarchs, Murderesses, and Coquettes: Investigations in Long-Eighteenth-Century Femininities 119
Aleksandra Hultquist
- Reflections on Translation 125
Jay Caplan
- English Novelists Read the French Revolution 129
Michael Verderame
- African Allusions in Eighteenth-Century Literature 135
Marilyn Walker
- Notes on Contributors 138